IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of the Nickelsen boys Kermit, Kyle, Dean & Keith

AUTUMN

I was alone with Autumn;
The country road was still
I stood beneath the tinted trees;
The passing breeze was chill.

Crisp, curled leaves came drifting
To hide where deer trails led;
Sunlight danced on bittersweet,
A brilliant orange-red.

Sumac hugs the old stone fence
Where asters vie for space;
Swaying in drifting shafts of gold,
Hang spider webs of lace.

Over the browning meadow,
Beyond a brook's bright spill,
She deftly draped a hazy shawl
Above the distant hills.

Soon in her waning hour,
Will come her closing song,
Echoed in wild geese calling
As they speed along.

I was alone with Autumn,
Wishing that I could keep
All of her flaming glory
As earth prepares for sleep.

Extension Information

The Minnesota Department of Agriculture (MDA) advises farmers and fertilizer applicators to check soil temperatures before fall application of ammonium-based nitrogen fertilizers. Warm weather this season has kept soil temperatures around the state from dropping below 50°F, the recommended temperature to apply nitrogen and avoid fertilizer loss.

On average, soil temperatures reach 50°F during the first week in October in northern Minnesota and the fourth week of October in southern Minnesota. However, that has not happened this year, with soil temps remaining above 50°F in many parts of the state.

To assist tracking soil temperature, the MDA has 48 monitoring stations on its online soil temperature map at: https://app.gisdata.mn.gov/mda-soiltemp/.

Soil temperature is measured at a six-inch depth; the same depth anhydrous ammonia is typically applied. Station data on the MDA online map is updated every 15 minutes with the help of satellite uplink technology from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the National Weather Service.

In addition to delaying application until soil temperature stays below 50°F, University of Minnesota Extension best management practices for nitrogen use recommend using a nitrification inhibitor when fall applying anhydrous ammonia in south-central Minnesota. Fall applied urea is not recommended for south-central Minnesota.

In southeast Minnesota's karst region and statewide on coarse-textured soils, fall application of nitrogen fertilizer is not recommended regardless of soil temperature. Specific nitrogen fertilizer use recommendations by region of the state can be found at: www.mda.state.mn.us/nitrogenbmps.

Two workshops are scheduled to help pork producers prepare for the upcoming antibiotic changes and the Common Swine Industry Audit.

• Nov. 10 – Mankato, Country Inn and Suites, 1900 Premier Drive

• Nov. 11 – Marshall, SMSU Conference Center, 1501 State Street

Responsible Antibiotic Use portion of the workshop will be from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m., with registration at 9:30 a.m. and the Common Swine Industry Audit workshop will be from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. at both locations.

There is no cost to attend, but pre-registration is requested online at www.mnpork.com/responsible-antibiotic-workshops/ through Minnesota Pork Board to ensure adequate materials are available. Attendees can register for the entire day or for just the antibiotic update or common audit portion.

Jill Resler, Minnesota Pork Board director of education says, "During the antibiotic update portion of the workshop, experts and fellow pork producers will share their perspectives on the upcoming U.S. Food and Drug Administration's new regulation addressing on-farm antibiotic use in food-animal production that will come into effect Jan. 1, 2017. Speakers will cover on-farm implementation strategies, the partnerships between feed suppliers, farmers and veterinarians and on-farm strategies to reduce antibiotic need."

Sarah Schieck, University of Minnesota Swine Extension educator will conduct the Common Swine Industry Audit portion of the workshop. "The common audit portion of the workshop will go through the 92 questions of the audit tool, which includes records, documents, and standard operating procedures that need to be available for the audit," says Schieck. Attendees will be provided with a binder and a flash drive, including customizable audit materials for their farms.

A series of 42 meetings on fair farm rental agreements begins in early November and continues for five weeks throughout the state.

The program is free and designed to help meet the needs of farmers, landlords, agri-business professionals and others.

"Farmland rental rates have never been higher," says David Bau, Extension educator in ag business management. "Following earlier records, the prices for corn and soybeans in recent years are significantly lower. Determining a fair, profitable farm rental agreement is a challenge in today's economy."

Bau will examine several ways to negotiate fair rental agreements that satisfy the landowner and farmer. Examples and factsheets will be provided, along with worksheets that look at 2017 input costs and crop prices to determine affordable rent, rate of return to the landlord and flexible rental agreements.

The meetings begin in early November and end in mid-December. Locations are: Ada, Albert Lea, Alexandria, Benson, Blue Earth, Buffalo, Caledonia, Chaska, Cologne, Elko New Market, Faribault, Farmington, Foley, Gaylord, Hutchinson, Jordan, Le Center, Litchfield, Little Falls, Long Prairie, Madison, Mankato, Melrose, Moorhead, Morris, Newfolden, Olivia, Owatonna, Park Rapids, Pipestone, Preston, Red Lake Falls, Rochester, St. Charles, St. Peter, Slayton, Sleepy Eye, Waseca, Wheaton, Willmar and Worthington.
